

Lower energy mass measurement

CDD are specialists in the use of very low energy Xrays for measurement of small masses at very high speed.

 These can be applied to both on-line and off-line measurements, with closed loop control. One application utilises this technique for measuring and verifying powder dosage in pharmaceutical devices. The technique can be applied for measuring up to 3000 items/minute, at accuracies of down to 0.1mg.